

TERRIO TREATS DOWN SYNDROME

Did you know that TERRIO offers Physical, Occupational, and Feeding Therapy services for children with Down Syndrome? The earlier therapy begins, the better the children's outcomes are throughout their lifetime.

World Down Syndrome Day is celebrated globally on March 21 to raise awareness about the genetic disorder that affects approximately 1 in 700 babies born in the United States each year. Help TERRIO in raising awareness and helping children with Down Syndrome!

About TERRIO

TERRIO is a network of services all designed to help you, our customer, reach your fullest potential. TERRIO lives off the mantra "there has to be a better way." Thus, whenever TERRIO is presented with a problem, we look for a creative and innovative solution to that problem and then we make sure our patients "Get Informed, Get Moving, Get Better."

COMMITMENT TO QUALITY

To demonstrate TERRIO's commitment to providing quality care and service to our patients, we have invested in measuring functional patient outcomes and patient satisfaction using a third-party outcomes system, Focus on Therapeutic Outcomes, Inc. (FOTO©). While many in health care say they are committed to quality care and service, few are willing to put their resources into actually measuring these cornerstones and responding to them.

The Earlier Therapy Begins, the Better the Outcomes

Physical Therapists help children with Down Syndrome develop gross motor skills in order to achieve important developmental milestones. These skills can include, but are not limited to, head control, sitting, crawling, postural control, standing, and walking.

Occupational Therapy Practitioners work with persons with Down Syndrome to help them master skills for independence through self-care like feeding and dressing, fine and gross motor skills, school performance, and play and leisure activities.

During infancy, Feeding Therapy can help parents whose children are having feeding problems because of weak muscles in their cheeks, tongue, and lips.
